12.Permanent Winds

Trade winds-From the Sub tropical high pressure belts to the equatorial low pressure belt.Due to coriolis force, Trade winds blow North East direction in the Northern Hemisphere and are South East direction in the Southern Hemisphere.

Westerlies-From the Sub tropical high pressure belts to the Sub polar low pressure belt. Westerlies are comparatively stronger in the Southern Hemisphere than in the Northern Hemisphere due to the expansion of oceans.

Polar winds-Polar high pressure belt to the Sub polar low pressure belt.

13.Southwest monsoon

During summer the South Asian land masses, especially the Indian Sub Continent, gets heated up intensely and severe low pressure develops. Wind blows towards the land mass from the Indian Ocean where comparatively high pressure prevails. These winds blowing as South West winds due to Coriolis effect causes widespread rainfall on entering the land. The western parts of Tamil Nadu receive scanty rainfall while Kerala receives heavy rainfall from South West Monsoon.Because Tamilnad is rain shadow region.

14.Northeast monsoon

During winter, as the northern land masses get severely cooled, high pressure develops over North India. This causes the winds to blow continuously from the land towards the Indian Ocean as north east winds. These winds which are generally dry in nature.

15.@.Local Winds-Local winds are winds formed as a result of local differences in temperature and pressure.

Loo	North Indian plains	Hot wind
Chinook	Slopes of Rocky mountain in North America	Dry Hot wind
Foehn	Slopes of Alps Moutain in Europe	Dry Hot wind
Harmattan	Sahara Desert in Africa	Relief to Intense heat

16.Forms of Condensation

Dew-During the night, as the earth's surface cools down, the atmosphere close to the earth's surface also cools. The water vapour condenses to form tiny droplets of water which may cling on to the grass tips, leaf blades as well as other cold surfaces.

Frost-Whenever the atmospheric temperature falls below 0o Celsius, especially during nights, tiny crystals of ice are formed instead of dew.

Mist and Fog-Fog or mist is formed as a result of condensation of water vapour around tiny dust particles in the lower atmosphere. Fog and mist can be distinguished based on the range of visibility through them.

Clouds- Clouds are formed as a result of condensation around the tiny dust particles in the atmosphere. The water droplets thus formed are less than 0.001 cm in diameter.

17.Types of Rainfall

(a)Orographic rainfall or Relief rainfall -Moisture-laden winds from the sea, enter the land and will be raised along the mountain slopes.This leads to condensation and formation of rain clouds along the windward slopes of mountains. While the windward slopes of mountains get more rainfall, the descending dry air makes the leeward side rainless. Such regions are called Rain Shadow Regions.

(b)Convectional Rainfall-Rainfall occurring in afternoon during summer season through Convection process.As the convectional rainfall commonly occurs during afternoons, it is also called 4 O'Clock rains.

(c)Cyclonic Rainfall -In cyclonic systems where warm and cold air meet, the warm air will be raised up to cause condensation and rainfall. This type of rainfall is called

The impact of volcanic eruptions on the ocean floor and the fall of meteors can also cause tsunamis. It is the coastal areas that mainly bear the brunt of tsunamis.

33.Which types of weathering are caused by each of the following factors? Explain how

Weathering

Physical Weathering	Chemical Weathering	Biological Weathering
Due to temperature changes, rock minerals expand and contract. In addition, when water gets trapped inside the cracks of rocks and freezes into ice, it expands.	Oxygen, carbon dioxide, water, and other substances engage in chemical reactions with the minerals in rocks, leading to the chemical decomposition of rocks.	The protrusion of plant roots, the burrowing of animals that make holes in rocks, and the decay of plant and animal remains also cause the disintegration of rocks.

.Weathering leads to the formation of soil .It helps to separate minerals from rocks .It causes mineral enrichment .It makes mining easier

36.Urulpottal' is a type of mass wasting. Elucidate

The phenomenon of the fall or movement of rocks or topsoil from higher to lower areas under the direct influence of gravity is called mass wasting. Landfalls, rockfalls, landslides, debris f lows, and land subsidence are different types of mass wasting seen in our highlands. The sudden movement of rock debris and soil mixed with water down a steep slope under the direct influence of gravity is called a debris flow. The landslide refers to the downward sliding of a portion of a mountain slope under the force of gravity. In the hilly regions of Kerala, intense rainfall often triggers landslides or debris f lows. This phenomenon is often be highly destructive.

37.Important expeditions during this period

Non-Renewable resources/Conventional resources	Renewable resources/Non-conventional resources
These resources get depleted and exhausted with use. They cause pollution. Very expensive to maintain, ex-tract, and transport Natural gas,coal, petroleum	Available in plenty Eco-friendly Usually pollution-free Solar energy, hydroelectricity,tidal energy, geothermal energy

62.Hold a discussion in what ways can non-conventional energy resources be utilised in human life?

Solar Energy	To utilize this power, modern technology employs two main methods: photovoltaic and solar thermal capture. While thermal methods focus on heat, photovoltaic cells convert solar radiation directly into electrical energy, which can be stored and used for a wide range of applications.
Wind energy	The kinetic energy of the wind is converted into electricity. The force of the wind is used to spin a windmill, which in turn drives a generator connected to it, producing electricity.
Heat energy	The heat released when magma erupts from the Earth's interior to the surface is efficiently stored and converted into electrical energy. In addition, it is possible to generate thermal energy from the hot water and vapour that emerge from the Earth through geysers.
Tidal Energy	The movement of ocean tides is used to spin turbines and

Santhal Revolt 1855 - 1856	Bengal, Jharkhand, Odisha, Bihar Led by Sidhu Murmu, Kanhu Murmu	Exploitation by landlords/money-lenders and forced displacement from traditional lands.
Munda Revolt (Ulgulan) 1899 - 1900	Chota Nagpur (Jharkhand). Led by Birsa Munda	British intervention in land ownership and exploitation by landlords.
Kurichya & Kurumba Revolt 1812	Wayanad (Kerala) Led by Raman Nambi	Excessive taxation, intervention of the British in regional administration, forced displacement from traditional land, confiscation of property

70.Most of the villages and cities in the states of India are interdependent. Substantiate the statement.

As cities depend on the villages for the raw materials for food, villages also depend on cities for technology and markets. Villages in contrast to cities, emphasise social relationships and cooperation. Urban societies promote industrialisation and provide modern employment opportunities. Urban life encourages cultural exchange. Rural and Urban societies maintain equilibrium through interdependence and strengthen the Indian social system.

71.Compare the ideas of diversity and pluralism.

Diversity	Pluralism
Diversity in society means the presence of differences within society. It includes cultural, religious, linguistic, racial and social distinctions. These diversities may not have mutual relations or mutual respect.	Pluralism promotes communication between different social groups, fostering mutual respect, love, and friendship irrespective of their diversity. Pluralism ensures that diversity does not lead to division, instead, it contributes to unity and coexistence.

72.Elucidate the role of national integration in overcoming the challenges faced by pluralism in Indian society.

National integration is a process by which people from different backgrounds, regions, languages, religions, and cultures are respected for their diversity, leading to a unified and harmonious state. It also emphasises people's identity, solidarity and public identity while respecting their diversity. India's national integration is a process that unifies Indian society. Ensures inclusive participation of all marginalised groups and ensures equal participation for all groups in society. It ensures coexistence, tolerance and secularism .
